PGA Golf Professional Craig Bonney Resigns

The Warrnambool Golf Club (WGC) today announced that long-term PGA Golf Professional, Craig Bonney, has resigned from his contract after more than 20 years in the role and will step away from the Club later this year.

Bonney, who was appointed in 1999, intends to leave Warrnambool after a successful career as the club's PGA Golf Professional and Director of Bonney Golf Pro Shop.

He will assist the Club's Committee of Management with the transition process and will see through the Club's busy summer period.

'Craig has significantly contributed to the growth and development of golf, not only at the Warrnambool Golf Club but throughout the entire South West region.' WGC President Paul Blain said. 'Having dedicated the majority of his golfing career in Warrnambool, this was by no means an easy decision for him, but one that we are fully supportive of and wish him the very best of luck.

'Craig's departure is the end of an era for the Club in many ways, having been a big part of our region's golfing community and he should be extremely proud of his commitment and contribution to the sport over the past two decades. There will be many members who will be disappointed to see him go, having coached and mentored hundreds of golfers over the years, and he leaves a great legacy and service at the club.'

WGC Committee will now make plans for the future of its Golf Professional and Pro Shop following Bonney's departure.
